 again the most popular. Jeff Groman's discussion of electric bikes, trikes and scooters (113), and Barbara Lawrence's Suquamish Museum history (58), Tressa joined us in March to discuss KRL's Curiosity Stream video service that got 49 views last month bringing it to 244 since it was published.
- In September sign-ins was 2195, 243 up relative to August.

REFRESH/LONG-TERM SITE DEVELOPMENT- Reed

Reed presented the BOD with the following synopsis of a plan that would possibly supersede the current Refresh status.

Bainbridge Island Senior/Community Center: Focus on Facility

- Our "refresh" effort (designed to make the Center more accessible, update paint and flooring), grew into a remodel on the Center's existing footprint.
- We envisioned opening up the East Wing, enlarging the thrift store, and improving the entry, and doing needed building maintenance (roof, flooring) at a cost of just under $500,000, with $160,000 coming from the Center.
- The single bid came back double our estimate, and we talked with the City about downsizing our request—basically cutting out the opening up of the East Wing. But when we look at spending $500,000 for that work it seems on reflection like paying too much for too little.

A little "Back-to-the-Future" research has us reviewing the 2007 effort to envision long-term facility needs for the Senior/Community Center.

This feasibility study, conducted by the Seattle firm A|R|C Architects and engaging a wide range of community leaders (including Tom Kilbane, Jeannette Franks, and Reid Hansen) developed several models for a two-story facility open for community, with a focus on senior citizens.

Among the highlights—a need for more flexible spaces for exercise, games, education, related services (such as adult day care and transportation coordination), travel coordination, a thrift store, a commercial kitchen and small café or coffee shop (in addition to current weekday meals). Further, this project could be expanded with Housing Resources Bainbridge and others to include senior-focused housing—a related urgent need identified on the island.

We propose:

- Proceed with urgent maintenance on the current facility (E. Wing roof, Accessible Rest Room entry, hearing loop in Huney Hall), funded by the City.
- Proceed with simple cosmetic refresh: repair E. Conf Room ceiling and replace carpet squares, minor painting), funded by BISCC
- Move to a rebuild an expansion of the Center as a senior/community resource with colocated senior housing
 - Work with HRB / BRIDGE Housing to propose a public/private partnership to develop and a two-story senior/community center and senior housing on the current site, aided by an architectural consultant.

A lengthy discussion was held as to the choice of moving forward with the existing plans before the City for the Refresh of the Center or looking at a long-term plan for the future.

Motion: David moved that the Senior Center recommend to the City to suspend all activity regarding the Refresh of the BISCC facility for a period of 60 days that would include architect drawings and bid recommendations. Sheila seconded and it was unanimously approved.

Bill and Reed will continue to work with Charlie Wenzlau, Architect, Housing Resources Bainbridge, and the City to see if it appears to be feasible going forward.
